9th NEWSLETTER of the Eco-media project

June 2023

Start date: 01-12-2021 / End date: 01-12-2023

In a digital world, professionals need to guide young people to engage in volunteering activities.

Meet our next steps:

- Focus Group Meetings with stakeholders in each partner country and collect feedback regarding the training units and modules.
- Finalization and Translation of the Training Units into partner's national languages.

Setting our next goals!

Focus Group Meetings with stakeholders in each partner country and collect feedback regarding the training units and modules.

The focus group meetings with stakeholders have a primary objective of gathering valuable feedback and insights on the developed training units and modules. This process aims to evaluate the effectiveness and relevance of the training units in addressing the needs and challenges of youth workers and young people engaged in e-volunteering, digital activism, and environmental sustainability. We seek to identify strengths, weaknesses, and areas requiring further development, gathering feedback on content clarity, appropriateness of learning materials, and usability of the e-learning platform. It is essential to validate the intended learning outcomes and objectives, ensuring they meet the expectations of the target audience. We encourage stakeholders to contribute suggestions, recommendations, and innovative ideas to enhance the training units, including additional topics, resources, and interactive elements. By involving stakeholders in the feedback process, we promote stakeholder engagement, inclusivity, collaboration, and shared responsibility, empowering them to contribute to the project's overall success.

The training units will undergo translation into various languages to cater to the specific countries: Spanish for Spain, Greek for Cyprus and Greece, German for Austria, Italian for Italy, and Finnish for Finland. This translation process is intended to ensure that the training materials are accessible and effective in reaching the target audience in their respective native languages.
